PUBLIC OFFICE NEEDS EXPERTS.

By Prof. A. Lawrence Lowell. The administration of a great city cannot he conducted efficiently and at the same time be kept in touch with public needs without a combination of the expert and the representative of outside opinion, and the relation that ought to exist between these two is plain. The current management and the initiative in the main ought so lie with the expert, but lieought to work under the constant oversight and control of non-professional men.

Such a relation has grown up spontaneously in our great commercial and educational bodies, in the president and directors of a railroad or a bank, in the president and trustees of a university-or-college, for examble, and it could be introduced into almost any form of city government, for it is not inconsistent either with the plan of boards of commissioners or with that of a mayor's cabinet

In order to set up the proper relation between the expert and the non-professional representative of the public it is not necessary to prescribe their duties by law, but to make the distinction between them perfectly clear, and that distinction must be based upon the essential difference in the functions to be performed.

The expert is expected to make his public work his career. He should devote his whole time to it, receive a liberal salary and be protected from removal except for cause. The non-professional is not to manage his department, but to see that it is properly managed. He ought not to be expected to give a great deal of his time to it, ought to be paid nothing, or a much lower sulars than the expert, and ought to give an account of his stewardship by coming up for reappointment or election at fixed-intervals.

and why, and you will soon caim down. She weeps if he crosses her, pretends sickness if he reproves her, plays dead if he scolds her; she can't do a thing for herself; she runs him into debt, flatters him into a way of life beyond his means and keeps him her slave by making him believe he is the whole thing and that she couldn't live-without him. So that, far from being an object of universal pity, the husband who is a slave is often the most guilible creature in existence with a vanity it is a sin not to subvert and a conceit which it econies a crime not to utilize. Some men are so supreme in their own estimation that not only their own wives but even the wayfaring woman, hurrying to get home, cannot resist the temp tation to pluck him in passing, it is so easy to snatch a perquisite by an inevitable tribute to what he knows is true of himself. In other words, many of the so-called easy marks among men are not merely big-hearted, good natured brothers. They are often men of such sublime egotism that a 600-pound woman could faint in the arms of one such, and he would half kill himself trying to carry her all alone because she had often told him his touch was so gentle and so different from that of most

OUR NATIONAL LOSS FROM FIRE.

By Samuel H. Adams. We hear much, in this peaceful country, about Germany's burden of militarism. Weli cur national bonfire would pay for the Kaiser's whole army maintenance and leave a surplus annually of twenty millions for a fireworks fund wherewith to appease our pyromaniae appetite. If Germany is oppressedby wars and the rumor of wars, how much more sorely is the United States oppressed by fire and the evils that attend it! And the worst of it is that this loss, in great part, is needless and superfluous; incredibly and idiotically stupid and short-sphted.

Europe proves much. No nation there but would be appailed at such a fire bill as ours. In the forty-five the United States. There are slaves in plenty | principal cities of Europe there is less than one fire at nually (.86, to be exact) to every thousand inhabitants. In this country we maintain a general average of four and a half fires per thousand persons. The per capita loss by flames in Italy is 12 cents yearly; in Germany, 49 cents; in thirty of the largest European cities, 61 cents, and in 252 American cities the per capita destrucsoft, pluk and white women, their wives who tion averages $3.10. Roston, in many respects the most scentifically administered and municipally progressive city in this country, has a yearly bill of a million and

RELIGION AND THEOLOGY. By Henry F. Cope.

"Who shall abide in Thy tabernacle He that walketh upright."-Ps. xv:1,

. It is easy to exalt opinions to undue importance, especially if the opinious are our own, and invariably if they are formed with a splendid disregard of all other opinions. There is a futal facility about thinking the same-things until them. opinion runs automatically and begins to rule us. Then we set un such automatic judgments as standards for others and as objects of worship for

This is not the kind of thinking that makes the world. This is not the kind of thinking that determines character. The deep thoughts of the heart shape the actions of mankind. But this prejudice and blind automatic utterance of opinion is often the type of thinking that dominates theology. It is a disappointing experiment to ask. What ought I to do in order to the way of the religious life and service? and to receive the answer that service? and to receive the answer that not gain a success worth having by you must believe this statement or that selfishness. But if you follow Him rou definition or opinion. Almost any worth while man would rather be saved by theological hypocrisy.

If you examine the formulas and philosophies upon the acceptance of thick your character and destiny are both supposed to rest you will be surprised to find how little they have to with the deep and eternal realities of life. Theology concerns itself principally-with-matters about which we never can have precise information, where uncertainty is most certain to be discovered, and often with those mat ters which if they were settled absolutely, would lose all interest to us. People were happy in their enjoyment of this fair world long before the .. No man gets to be a star by rehearsinvention of the nebular hypothesis. They managed to stay on the ground long before the discovery of the law of gravitation. No man would be condemned to be chained to the earth for fear of falling off because he refused to believe that law.

The great thing to do is to accept the hearing its echo in heaven. facts as they are for working purposes. That is the only pathway into larger understanding of the laws of our universe, - The mechanic who obeys the elementary laws of physics is a better scientist than he who blindly subscribes to all the theories of our

If we will gradually_build-such a firm_and_certain platform for our practice we will cease and will find truth through life, right doctrines through duty.

THE GREATEST MAN.

By Rev. Thomas Reed Bridges. Who is the greatest?-Matthew Evill. 1.

Our Lord does not condemn ambition. but He defines its true object. True ambition, according to Christ, is distin guished by humility and service. The first quality demands that we be unconscious of self. ...The second demands that we be conscious of others.

Early in His ministry Jesus uttered the beatitude, "Blessed are the meek." Now to these ambitious disciples He said: "You must humble yourselves and become as little children. ness is thought by many to be the same as weakness. It is, on the contrary, noblest-kind-of-strength. Men cling to the idea of personal importance. Flattery is the surest road a favor. We are never so happy as when people praise us and bow down before us. We have not learned the greatness of humility. Nor have we learned the further greatness of ser-vice. Our Lord and Master was servant of all. The poorest and the humblest could command Him. He went about looking for the people that needed Him. Worldly ambition makes us look at men in other lights. They are beggars to be ignored, they are tools to be used, they are rivals to be crushed. But the spirit of service puts them all in one class. They are brothers to be loved and helped.

Who, then, is greatest? The manwho does the greatest amount of good Helpfulness is the highest quality of glory of man. All honor to him who loods the world with a great affection. who stirs the world with great thoughts, who moves the world to deeds

Service is the thing that lasts longest. It has an earthly - immortality. When our names have perished and our memory is forgotten, the good deeds we have done will live on. "Charity never falleth." The beauty of the beneficial deed, the widow's two mites. the alabaster box of ointment, Sir Philip Sidney's cup of cold water, the passing shadow of Florence Nightingale, which the dying soldier strove to kiss; these are pictures which this world, bad as it is, will not let fade, The suns of centuries rise and set-upor

The beauty of this ideal of service is that it is withing the reach of all. Every city is full of poverty, suffering, ignorance, degradation. Everywhere our brothers lie before us as of old they lag before the eternal Christ, most miserable, but most noble. They need our heln and they are worthy of it Their hearts will thrill with new life the action of the individual and dictate at the touch of kindness and they will rise and stand upon their feet.

Jesus Christ offers the world a new road to greatness. He fraveled it Himself and thousands praise Him in every tand. His name is above every name. There is no other way. You cannot rise by cunning and deceit. You can Almost any will reach the snoweled summit, you will win the favor of man and God dumned for intellectual honesty than and leave the world at last a little better than you found it.

Wash Trees in Winter. After the leaves have fallen from fruit trees, bushes and ornamental shrubs, it is a good plan to wash the trunks and lower branches with something that will kill the insects or their eggs hiding in the loose bark. This can be done at any time during the dorm-

One of the best washes for foult trees and shrubs is the kerosene emulsion. It not only kills mature and immature insects, but cleanses the tree it general, and that which runs down to the ground finds its way to the root

Eczema began over the top of my ear. It cracked and then began to spread. I had three different doctors and tried several things, but they did me no good. At last one side of my face and my neck were raw. The water ran out of it so that I had to wear medicated cotton, and it was so inflamed and sore that I had to put a piece of cloth over my pillow to keep the water sort of yellow. The eczema itched so that it seemed as though I could tear my face all to pieces. Then I began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and it was not more months before it was all healed up. ELECTRICITY FROM THE SUN. Inventor Claims He Can Produce Power by Storing Old Sol's Bays. That he has successfully solved the problem of storing up the sun's rays and converting them into electrical energy, a problem on which the scientists of the world have been diligently working, is the claim made by a Boston inventor. George S. Cove, of Sommerville. Mr. Cove demonstrates the success of his invention by lighting his workshop with electricity generated from a simple appartus on the roof.

No electric wires of any sort enter his building from outside-lighting sources, yet the incundescent glober twinkle merrily day and night, and electricians from the Institute of Techgology who have watched with interest nis experiments declare themselves enhushistic over his success

Cove has demonstrated that his sinide mechanical device will store up sufficient electricity for an entire house. He also says the machines, which can e built at I cost of $100 each, when ineased in glass, will least ten years. without repair or alteration. He began his experiments through an accident when one day he let some glass and other metals remain on the door in the direct rays of the sun, and a connection etween the metals and his storage attery resulted in storing the latter with electricity.

From this he perfected a machine which generates through a day of sunlights of twenty-candle power each, to last from three to four days of continious lighting. In two days of sunshine the device generates and stores up sufcient_electricity_to_last_six_days.

Nearly Ten Miles of Formidable War Craft Steams Majestically Past the President's Yacht.

With pennants streaming, twenty eight bands playing the "Star-Spangled Banner" and saluting cannon roaring tribute to the President, the battle ship neet of the American navy ended its world cruise at Old Point Comfort. Va., Monday. After steaming in review fore the President, whose cagle-crest ed flag of blue was at the malu-of the cruiser yacht Mayflower, the sixteen white battle ships cast anchor in the fairway of Hampton, Roads, from which they started fourteen months ago on their voyage of 45,000 miles. The joy of home-coming was written upon the face of every blue jacket and officer on the vessels. The long-cruise, the visits to many of the most famous ports of the world and the homage paid to the fleet by every nation have been sources of pleasure to everyone aboard. but there was no scene in all the world to compare in beauty with the familiar landmarks passed by the fleet as it steamed a triumphant, self-reliant and efficient force through the Virginia capes and entered the hospitable waters. of Chesapeake Bay and Hampton Roads. While there has been some expansion in house jobbing trade in dry goods, millinery and kindred lines and business in agricultural implements, seeds and ferthizers has been large, the unsettlement caused by price reductions in the iron, steel and other metal markets, the weakness in securities and the near approach of tariff revision have all made for a degree of uncertainty not so plainly visible for a long time past.

Weather conditions, too, have played a part in arresting retail trade, coun try roads are in bad shape, farmers' deliveries are affected despite attractive prices for grain, and there has been, in_fact, an apparent slowing down-in the current of trade, which, however temporary it may be, has tended to make comparisons with a year ago at this time, largely favorable as they pected some time ago.

LADY OF THE WHITE HOUSE.

Mrs. BooseVelt Has Won People's Confidence and Admiration.

For seven years the people of the United States have observed Mrs. Roosevelt and the manner in which she has conducted her share of the White House affairs, the Indianapolis Stor says. The least spectacular of women, modest, retiring, even selfeffacing, she has yet proved herself ulstress of every o ıston≕nıntable. tactful, at ease with high and low, equal to every social emergency, fulfilling every rightful demand upon her in the most pleasing way, her husband's helpmate in the best sense throughout their social and semi-public life.

With all Mrs. Roosevelt's gentleness and lack of self-assertion she has giv en the impression of strength of character. No weak woman could have performed so ably all her heavy social duties, at the same time keeping in order her darge family of obstreper children and without doubt exercising a wholesomely restraining influence on her tempestuous husband. She has kept herself entirely apart from political life

TO PREVENT THPHOID.

Military Authorities Advocate cination of Regulars.

Immunization by vaccination agains yphold in the army camps by vaccina tion is to be undertaken by the mili-tary authorities. The whole matter is to be put before the army and individuals-are to be invited to volunteer for vaccination. No soldier or officer will be compelled to submit to anti-typhoid vaccination against his will, but an effort will be made by lectures and ex amples to show the soldier the advantage of availing himself of such a simple and easy way of escaping one of the worst and most dreaded of army camp diseases. These measures are -to-be-taken as a result of the recommendations of the Board of Physicians appointed to consider measures for preventing typhoid fever in army camps.

in times of peace when the army is stationed at its various garrison posts throughout the country, there is less than half as much typhoid among soldiers as is found among that part Sam Penna, of Detroit, who is an of- of the civil population of military ficer of the Michigan Federation of Lat- age.
